129 Organizations and Companies Strongly Oppose the “Monsanto Protection Act”

Dear Majority Leader Reid, Majority Whip Durbin, Chairwoman Mikulski and Chairman Pryor:

Earlier this year, hundreds of thousands of Americans called their elected officials to voice their frustration and disappointment over the inclusion of a controversial policy rider (Sec. 735) — dubbed “the Monsanto Protection Act”— in the Continuing Resolution spending bill (H.R. 933).

The rider represents a serious assault on the fundamental safeguards of our judicial system, and could negatively impact farmers, the environment and public health across America. Yet it was quietly slipped into HR 933 without congressional debate, hearings or input from any of the relevant committees.

Sec. 735 is an unprecedented overstep of the clear-cut boundary of a Constitutionally-guaranteed separation of powers essential to our government. This rider sets a dangerous precedent for congressional intervention in the judiciary. The ability of courts to review, evaluate and judge an issue that impacts public and environmental health is a strength—not a weakness—of our system. The loss of this fundamental safeguard could leave public health, the environment and livelihoods at risk.

The rider does not merely allow, it would force, the Secretary of Agriculture to immediately grant any requests for permits to allow continued planting and commercialization of an unlawfully approved genetically engineered (GE) crop. The rider also makes a mockery of USDA’s legally mandated review, transforming it into a ‘rubber stamp’ approval process.

The recent discovery of unapproved GE wheat in Oregon should serve as a wake-up call about the vulnerability of our export markets and the economic impacts that result from transgenic contamination. Japan and South Korea’s immediate suspension of U.S. white wheat exports – total wheat exports valued at over $8 billion annually— is a reminder of the need for regulatory safeguards.

Our federal courts have long been the last resort for people seeking to challenge illegal actions by the government or its officials. Sec. 735 is a damaging step backwards.

Therefore, we the undersigned 129 food businesses and retailers, and family farm, consumer, health, environmental and civil liberties groups, representing many millions of Americans, oppose the “Monsanto Protection Act” and call for it to be excluded in the upcoming short-term FY14 Continuing Resolution spending bill.

Respectfully submitted,
