FOODBORNE ILLNESS OUTBREAKS SINCE ENACTMENT OF FSMA (JANUARY 4, 2011)

January 2011
- Salmonella Agona
  - Source: imported papayas
  - 25 states
  - 106 ill
  - 10 hospitalized

April 2011
- Salmonella Enteritidis
  - Source: cantaloupe
  - 5 states
  - 21 ill
  - 3 hospitalized

July 2011
- Listeria monocytogenes
  - Source: cantaloupe
  - 10 states
  - 20 ill
  - 3 hospitalized

October 2011
- E. coli serotype O157:H7
  - Source: Romaine lettuce
  - 10 states
  - 60 ill
  - 30 hospitalized

- Salmonella Infantis
  - Source: dry dog food
  - 20 states
  - 49 ill
  - 10 hospitalized

December 2011
- Shiga Toxin-producing E. coli O104
  - Source: raw clover sprouts
  - 11 states
  - 29 ill
  - 7 hospitalized

- Listeria monocytogenes
  - Source: imported ricotta salata cheese
  - 14 states
  - 22 ill
  - 20 hospitalized
  - 4 died

March 2012
- Listeria monocytogenes
  - Source: imported rice
  - 14 states
  - 9 states
  - 18 ill
  - 4 hospitalized
  - 1 died

April 2012
- Shiga Toxin-producing E. coli O145
  - Source: unknown
  - 9 states
  - 18 ill
  - 10 hospitalized

- Salmonella Bredeney
  - Source: peanut butter
  - 20 states
  - 42 ill
  - 10 hospitalized

- 61% of those ill

June 2012
- Salmonella Typhimurium & Salmonella Newport
  - Source: cantaloupe
  - 24 states
  - 261 ill
  - 94 hospitalized
  - 3 die

July 2012
- Salmonella Braenderup
  - Source: mango
  - 15 states
  - 127 ill
  - 33 hospitalized

October 2012
- E. coli O157:H7
  - Source: spinach & salad mix
  - 5 states
  - 33 ill
  - 13 hospitalized

- 2 developed hemolytic uremic syndrome (HUS), a type of kidney failure